

Providing culturally appropriate health education and information

Every culture has a different understanding of health and illness. Language barriers in some communities may also make health education difficult. CHWs work to ensure that their clients receive health education and treatment instructions that they can understand and follow as instructed.