

Building individual and community capacity

CHWs work to help their clients gain the skills and knowledge needed to empower themselves to take responsibility for the health and well being of themselves, their families, and their communities. CHWs seek work with others to build a strong community with the ability to create and support positive and lasting changes within individuals, families, and community resources.

